

The method for the treatment of periodontitis provides for employing the foams following the antiseptic treatment of the root canals. 0.5 % miramystin is employed as an antiseptic. The paper foams are treated with miramystin and smectit prior to their application.