

A method for agglomeration of ores and concentrates with use of fine-disperse sludges, which method includes palletizing the agglomeration charge of agglomeration, containing fine-disperse sludge with subsequent sintering, at that before incorporation into the agglomeration charge the sludge is briquetted .