

The proposed differential high-sensitive magnetoresistor can be used in devices for protecting electric facilities. The magnetoresistor contains a ring-type magnetic circuit and winding. The core of the magnetic circuit is made by winding strip of manganese-zinc ferrite. The proposed magnetoresistor is distinctive by its enhanced reliability and sensitivity.