

Regulation of expression of ageing in plants by means of introducing a gene or a fragment of a gene coding ageing-induced lipase to plant genome in antisense orientation is applied. Identified genes of carnation and Arabidopsis, coding the ageing-induced lipase, and nucleotide consequences used for modification of ageing process of transgenic plants are identified.