

This invention relates to medicine and veterinary, namely, immunology, and concerns methods aimed at correcting the immune system of live body. The substance of the invention is in the immunocorrection of the body with the use of pharmacologically appropriate amino derivatives of 2,3-dihydrophthalazine-1,4-dione in their effective doses ranging from 0.2 mg to 1,000 mg.