

A footwear for ankle joint with rigid correcting leg on which sole an upper with narrow back part is fixed, the rigid correcting leg is inserted and made from thermoplastic materials which are subjected to thermo-correction or from polymeric bands suitable for foot correction. The rigid correction leg is fixed on the back unit of the wear which connected on the upper or front edge with vilcro strip with possibility of correction.