

An invention relates to the wheat plants having increased resistance towards imidazolinone herbicide and involves the wheat plants, containing IMI3 of nucleic acid. The present invention also involves seeds, produced by these plants, and methods for control over the weeds amid these wheat plants.