

The method for reinforcement of basement of a building includes transfer of part of load to bearing beam structures placed under the foundation grill, those rest on additional supports arranged as piles placed in pit out of the existing basement. To simplify the works on reinforcement of the basement before arrangement of the foundation grill soil at the bottom of the pit is compacted and the bearing beam structures rest on the compacted soil and the heads of the pre-installed piles.