

A method to prepare fruit for storing includes spraying fruit on trees by aqueous solution of the preparation of the series "Mars", which is supplemented by distinol. The method proposed promotes inhibiting the processes of peroxide oxidation of the biologically active substances and also of processes of overmaturity and withering of the fruit, reducing the natural losses of weight and prolonging the term of storing the produce without deterioration of quality and biological value thereof.