

Floorboards with a format corresponding to a traditional parquet block for laying of mechanically joined floating flooring. The invention further comprises flooring systems and methods for manufacturing and installation of floorings comprising such floorboards.