

The invention relates to cable technique and may be used for windings of electric equipment with dry insulation. Coils wire with mineral and polymer insulation comprises insulation from sintered layers of glass and polyester threads and sintered lacquers layers deposited above the said layers. The said wire possesses enhanced heat resistance and resistance to (up to 500 double lifts of needle) to mechanical abrasion.