

The invention relates to the cosmetology, pharmacy and medicine, in particular to a method for the preparation of bioactive substance, which is a part of the composition of native components that are prepared of sow placenta, the bioactive substance itself and placenta aqueous extract.