

The invention relates to medicine, namely, to neuropathology and physiotherapy. The proposed method involves complex therapy as noncontact or contact-noncontact medicinal action of an operator, with arthmated fingertips, on the spine, including manual action.