

The device of the invention for supplying cooling air to a flap (21) of an exhaust nozzle in a gas turbine, comprises a tube (30) connecting the flap (21) to a cooling air source (31). The tube (30) comprises at least one telescopic portion and one ball-joint connection (33, 34).