

The invention relates to cosmetics, namely to aqueous gels for skin care and a method for obtaining thereof. The cosmetics contains the aqueous extract of placenta as a biologically active preparation and the following excipients: the preserving agent, the gel-forming agent, pH corrector, and water. The cosmetic has the gel-like consistence.