

Plants of B. oleracea resistant to affecting with anbury are applied. In particular, the plants proposed in the present invention, carry out a monogenous dominant character of resistance to affecting with anbury introgressed with B. rapa. That resistance to the disease is determined to be distinguished by higher level as compared to the cases of resistance known in B. oleracea earlier.