

A curable composition including a curable organic binder and particles is disclosed. The particles are rigid at or below a first temperature and become soft at temperatures at which the organic binder is cured. Methods for printing substrates are also disclosed.