

The present invention is directed to compounds having the formula [I + II) and methods for using them for the treatment of cancer.

