

The invention relates to a novel method for producing tiotropium salts or formula (I), wherein X can have significances specified in claims and a description.

