

The invention relates to an accessory for culling foodstuffs, comprising: - a mounting plate (1) partially delimiting a working chamber (13) that is open away from a base (10) provided with a seal (11) for a rotary primary' culling tool (2) and also a culling window in which a fixed secondary culling tool (3) is disposed in a removable manner, - a cover (6) which comprises a neck (68) for introducing foodstuffs to be cut and is located substantially opposite the cutting window, - means (100) for rotating the primary cutting tool (2). According to the invention, the secondary culling fool (3) comprises a frame which carries al least one cutting member (40) and which comprises a gripping member (34) that extends to the outside of the working assembly formed by the mounting plate (I) and the cover (6).