

An audio coding method, comprising: estimating the referential linear prediction efficiency of a current audio frame (101); determining an audio coding method matching the referential linear prediction efficiency of the current audio frame (102); and conducting audio coding on the current audio frame according to the audio coding method matching the referential linear prediction efficiency of the current audio frame (103). The technical solution facilitates decreasing audio coding overhead.