

The present invention provides a method of treating symptoms associated with Androgen Deprivation Therapy comprising administering to a patient in need of such treatment an effective amount of a compound of Formula I: [Formula should be inserted here] or a pharmaceutically acceptable salt thereof.