

This invention relates to a method of preparing a compound type where at least one of R' or R'' is a carboxyl group (I) by treating a compound of formula (II) with a Group I(a) or Group II(a) metal nalide, with an aprotic dipolar amide-based solvent and water.

