

This invention relates to design of a device for cutting wood, in particular, for design of teeth of a band-saw that makes translating movement during sawing wood, and may be used in band-saws for building and woodworking industry. A tooth of band-saw includes front and rear edges that form at intersection a tooth point in the form of acute angle. Rear edge of tooth near tooth point has a cavity that form an obtuse angle with rear edge.