

An explosive action in well reflecting-extinguishing localizer contains a case, lower part of which is equipped by a reflecting surface. The case is made as a rod with an internal hole, located axially to its longitudinal axes. On external surface of the case the punched shells are rigidly secured, made as the spherical hollow layered belts, rigidly connected among them by the bases of smaller size.