

A filtering cloth is made of synthetic polyamide and polypropylene threads and contains in its base and weft a combination of a mono-thread and a flat polypropylene thread, which form the cloth structure with visually continuity of its cover with the eye-passages for filtration of liquid.