

The hasp lock has housing, covers, bar, this serves as an appliance for locking, cross pieces, those fix the bar; bush, this is connected to the cross pieces, pinion, block, this is equipped with a spring, and a key comprising a slant with slots, cylinder with bosses at the end, and handle. Such implementation of the lock makes it possible to block the bar automatically, to increase reliability and protection of the lock against cracking.