

The invention relates to a stable, solid pharmaceutical composition comprising as active ingredients paracetamol and drotaverine hydrochloride in a mixture with one or more organic acid or potassium sorbate as stabilizers, one or more usually used pharmaceutical auxiliary materials and optionally additional active ingredient. As additional active ingredient codein phosphate may be used.