

The proposed device for remote control of electric lamps contains a control element with a closing contact, a switch, light indicators with current-limiting resistors, a reference direct voltage source, a pulse-shaping circuit, a trigger, two transistors, an optoelectronic diode thyristor switch, and a power reverse-conducting thyristor.