

The proposed device for monitoring and measuring insulation resistance in an earthed neutral electric mains contains a direct voltage source, an insulation resistance indicator, an overvoltage suppressor, a capacitor, a current-to-voltage converter, a compensating voltage source, and a voltage summing unit.