

According to the present invention, the proposed method for increasing capacity of an alkaline accumulator by vibrations consists in affecting the active mass of the accumulator by ultrasonic vibrations.