

Calibrator has body with blades reinforced with wear-proof elements. The blades in length of calibrator are separated by circular cuts to single rows. The invention provides bringing to operation new rows of blades and as result increase of life time of calibrator and effectiveness of calibration.