

Device for cleaning of downy material contains a loading chamber with loading and discharge openings, a cleaning chamber with inlet and outlet openings, a chamber of collection of clean material with an inlet executed with possibility of filling of bedtick with clean material, and an outlet, a unit of evacuation of air and a disinfecting device, moreover, the outlet of loading chamber is connected with the inlet of the cleaning chamber, the outlet of cleaning chamber is connected with the inlet of the chamber of collection of clean material, which is equipped with a branch pipe for fastening of bedtick, all chambers are executed with possibility of their hermetic sealing, and the loading chamber is equipped with tubes for supply of air with the sprayers at the end. Bactericidal lamp is used as a disinfecting device, the inlet of the unit of evacuation of air is connected with the outlet of the chamber of collection of clean material, at least, one of the tubes for supply of air is executed with possibility of changing the direction of air outlet from its sprayers and displacement of sprayers in the space, and the cleaning chamber is executed in the form of vertical labyrinth and is equipped from below with a cover executed with possibility of opening the cleaning chamber and its sealed closing.