

The invention relates to novel herbicidal, synergistic active agent combinations which consist of heteroaryloxy acetamides and known herbicidal compounds and/or safeners as listed in the description and which can be used particularly effectively for selective weed control in various crop cultures.