

The present invention relates to cooking ware and includes a container with the bottom and a lid. The lid and bottom each have an opening in the centre. The bottom of the ware is made as a truncated cone. An optically transparent fireproof tube, the second end of which is freely passes through the opening of the lid of the ware, is inserted into the opening of the bottom.