

A method for preparation of boiled sausage meat consists in addition of water, phosphate mixture, table salt, stuff, spicery. The water is previously softened by physical or chemical methods.