

The Cossack training device consists of two supports, the inclined guide designed as the mobile endless cord, the holders for the arms, and the brake. The holders for the arms are attached to the mobile endless cord enabling their rotation around the braking pulleys attached to the supports with the aid of the ropes.