

The proposed helmet for protection against bullets contains an external rigid sheath, an internal rigid sheath, fastening belts, and a layer of ballistic cloth positioned between the sheaths. The proposed helmet differs in that, for the purpose to reduce the helmet weight and the labor content in manufacturing the helmet, the ballistic cloth layer is in a natural unstressed state.