

Mechanical clutchless press, in which wedge support is turned by inclined part to the eccentric bushing, mobile catch is placed in the ring with a slant, and in the body of eccentric bushing is made the second opening in the transverse direction to the first opening and is mounted the spring-loaded mobile pusher, one inclined end of which is in the contact with the slant on the catch ring, and the second - with the inclined surface of wedge support.