

Device for strength increase of compressed rods contains two hingedly connected double-arm levers with lips and knobs on appropriate ends. Hollow semi-cylinders are fixed on the lips, which at compression of lips form hollow cylinder, axis of which is perpendicular with the plane of motion of levers, inside diameter is close to the diameter of the compression rod, and the length is equal to 0.5... 0.6 of rod length.