

Method for production of bimetallic continuous casted billet includes supply of liquid metal or alloy of one composition into the crystallizer simultaneously with introduction of billet of metal or alloy of another composition followed by elongation of produced bimetallic billet carried in the vacuum.