

The method for diagnosing the ischemic disease of the heart provides for magnetocardiography with the assessment of the extent of alteration of ventricular repolarization. ST-T interval is analyzed on the basis magnetocardiographic mapping.