

The container for storage and application of preparations comprises the flexible deformable vessel with a mouth, the adapter, and the dosing head. The adapter disposes between the dosing head and the mouth. One part of the dosing head is installed inside the cavity of the vessel while the other part is extended above the mouth of the vessel. The adapter contains at least one canal opened to the atmosphere.