

A method for obtaining agglomerate involves preparation of the charge, ignition and sintering the charge. Before ignition the charge is heated above the dew point, and ignition is performed in two stages, at the first of them the charge is subjected to oxidative high-temperature heating and solid fuel is ignited therein, and at the second stage this high-temperature zone is treated with reducing gases.