

The method of coding bit data chain to channel bit chain includes conversion of data bit blocks to information bit blocks, generation of possible channel bit block sets by adding each information bit block by one block of possible dividing bit blocks. The invention relates to knowledge systems and information transmission and can be used in the computer engineering, audio/video recording and playback equipment etc.