

The invention relates to disk reproducing devices using disks where basic and additional digital data for selective playback are recoded. The task of the invention is improvement of digital information reproduction.