

The invention relates to a method for manufacturing a dosage form for oral administration containing iphosphamide as an active substance. The method for obtaining of tablets based on iphosphamide as an active substance is developed. This method allows the obtaining of such tablets by pressing on convenient pill press.