

The invention relates to propulsion engineering, in particular to rotor combustion engines. The engine has assembled body with circular combustion chamber, group of pistons placed in combustion chamber drive shaft connected to pistons and transformation mechanism.