

Invention relates to the methods of obtaining the adsorbents from natural polymers of vegetable origin - crushed shell of fruit stones.

Method includes carbonization of impregnated shell of fruit stones and nuts at high temperatures and activation of carbonized product by water vapor.