

Flood spillway for extraordinary floods for dams and structures of similar type includes barrier element arranged at least as one rigid and continuous block that is supported on the spillway crest under effect of force of gravity. The invention relates to construction of dams and constructions of similar type.